Early Stage Support Groups

Our early-stage support groups intend to provide a safe and positive environment for individuals who have a physician's diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease, another dementia or a related disorder, and their caregivers. People who attend should be comfortable and open to discussing their diagnosis and symptoms in a group setting.

Prescreening is required prior to enrollment. For more information, call the Alzheimer's Association 24/7 Helpline at 800.272.3900.

Caregiver Support Groups

Our caregiver support groups offer comfort, reassurance, practical advice and a community of people who are facing similar challenges. These meetings are for unpaid family members or friends caring for someone living with Alzheimer's disease, another dementia or a related disorder. Attendees should be open to discussing their experience in a group.

Support group details are updated regularly and subject to change. Please call or email the meeting contact before attending to confirm that days, times and locations are accurate as listed. Please note that our caregiver support groups are not appropriate for professionals or paid caregivers.
